SLAYERS UNAWARE OF THE DENIAL FOR CLEMENCY

Mrs. Snyder and Gray To Be Allowed To Hope Until
The End

HAVE ONE DAY TO LIVE

Woman Expected Call From Attorneys Relative To Decision

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Ruth Snyder, with only one more day to live, arose from her prison cot today after a fitful night's sleep unaware that Governor Smith had denied the application for clemency in behalf of her and Henry Judd Gray.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes said the condemned couple would be allowed to hope on until the end. Gray, however, has long since resigned himself to his fate.

"It is not our policy to pass on bad news to prisoners in the death house," the Warden said. "If relatives of Mrs. Snyder or Gray, or their attorneys, wish to inform them of the Governor's decision that is their privilege."

Mrs. Snyder's defiant blue eyes had taken on a strained look this morning. She was very pale and preoccupied, merely nodding a casual "good morning" to her matrons. She had a telegram in her possession from Attorney Edgar F. Hazleton assuring her that he and her other two lawyers were making "constructive" moves in her behalf. She anticipated a call from the attorneys this afternoon, when she may be informed of the Governor's decision.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—Feverish, eleventh hour efforts to stay the execution of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, set for tomorrow night, were mapped out by attorneys for the condemned couple today on the heels of Governor Alfred E. Smith's denial of executive clemency.

Judd Gray's chief counsel, Samuel L. Miller, is enroute to Sing Sing to obtain the doomed man's signature to an application for a writ of habeas corpus, which the lawyer planned to present to Federal Judge Goddard in New York City this afternoon.

Mrs. Snyder's attorneys were also in touch with each other on the next legal steps they will take.

Miller said he would ask the Federal Court to stay the execution on the grounds that, first, the selection of the jury at the trial was influenced by Mrs. Snyder's lawyers, and second, Gray's opportunity for a fair trial was prejudiced by the fact that he was forced to be tried jointly with the woman.

If the Federal Judge were to grant the writ of habeas corpus, Gray would have to be produced in court, and thus his execution would be stayed.

Both the blonde Mrs. Snyder and her black-haired former sweetheart asked the same question of their guards this morning:

"What did Governor Smith do about our clemency plea?"

Both were given evasive answers. Up to eleven o'clock neither had been informed of the Governor's decision.

State News

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—A Pennsylvania chemist has been chosen to seek a new name for the two new vitamins now classified as "Vitamin B."

Prof. R. Adams Dutcher, widely known scientist and vitamin research specialist at the Pennsylvania State College has been named chairman of the committee on vitamin terminology of the American Society of Biological Chemists, whose specific task is the naming of the two new vitamins. Prof. Dutcher is head of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry here.

Associated with Prof. Dutcher in this work, in which British specialists will also co-operate, will be several outstanding food and vitamin specialists, including Dr. H. C. Sherman, Columbia; Dr. P. A. Levene, Rockefeller Institute; Dr. Harry Steenblock, University of Wisconsin; and Dr. Arthur Seidel, of the Federal Bureau of Public Health.

Prof. Dutcher's scientific investigations at Penn State in vitamin research have gained him considerable renown both here and in England. His work on vitamins of milk as affected by heat and dairy rations is especially well known.

At present Prof. Dutcher is offering special investigation work to Dr. Tamoh Ikeda, in charge of food control for the Japanese department of public health. Dr. Ikeda is to make a special study of Jessie, the famous Penn State cow with a doorway in her stomach from which samples of partly digested food are taken.

Odd Fellows Plan Big Time For Saturday Night

A big time is being planned for Saturday night by the I. O. O. F. lodges of the Eastern District of Bucks County which includes the lodges at New Hope, Yardley, Jamison, Newtown, Langhorne, Hulmeville, Richboro, and Bristol. The first, second and third degrees will be conferred on a large number of candidates from the various lodges in the district. It is expected that in all about 30 will be initiated.

The affair will be held in the lodge room of Ontario Lodge, Langhorne, and men of prominence in the affairs of the Odd Fellows will be in attendance, including District Deputy Grand Master, B. F. Cope.

The degree team of Oxford Lodge, No. 14, of Philadelphia, consisting of 40 men will do the degree work. They will take the floor promptly at seven o'clock.

Tomorrow night Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, of Bristol, will give the initiatory degree to a class of 10 candidates in preparation for the big event of Saturday evening.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE WITH PRES. COOLIDGE

Edgar N. Gott, of Keystone Aircraft Corp., Goes To Capital Today

STATE SURVEY IS MADE

Edwin N. Gott, president of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation, is in Washington, D. C., today, attending a special meeting of the National Aeronautical Commission, with other members of the Pennsylvania State Aeronautical Commission that was appointed last Fall by Governor Fisher. While in Washington, Mr. Gott will be one of a committee which will attend a conference at the White House with President Coolidge on the subject of establishing airways and airports.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 11.—A survey of aeroplane landing fields in Pennsylvania, just completed by Robert M. Ginter, Director of the Bureau of Aeronautics in the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, shows that 56 such fields are scattered over the Commonwealth.

Some of the fields are municipally owned, some are maintained by corporations, several conducted by private individuals and a few others are maintained by the Government. The study made thus far shows that some fields are very thoroughly equipped while some others are simply bare fields available for emergency landing purposes. Practically all the fields, however, have persons in charge to assist aviators after landing.

Within the next few days a committee of members of the State Aeronautics Commission will meet in Philadelphia to pass on a draft of rules and regulations governing the registration of airports following which final action will be taken by the full membership of the Commission. When these rules and regulations are finally adopted, the Bureau of Aeronautics will then begin the registration of airports and only those with complete equipment as provided for in the proposed regulations will be registered as airports and listed as such. Other fields in all probability will simply be listed as landing fields for emergency purposes.

The committee named by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward, who is chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission, to draft airport rules and regulations is composed of Major Charles J. Biddle, Philadelphia, Major John S. Owens, Philadelphia, H. N. Taylor, chairman of the Aviation Committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, and E. N. Gott, Bristol, president of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation.

As soon as the Commission passes finally on the regulations, the Bureau of Aeronautics will make a survey of the equipment on the various fields and tabulate these records so that aviators may have complete information concerning all fields within the boundaries of Pennsylvania.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—With a veteran squad from which to build a team, Coach "Dutch" Hermann, of the Penn State basketball team, hopes to mold a combination this year to equal those of the past few years. Only two men from the 1927 team are lost to this season's squad.

Mike Hamas, last year's captain and forward, is replaced by Johnny Roepke, football star. Mike's brother, Steve, is alternating with Roepke, while Hermann has Reinhold, Jacobson, Stahley and Wolslayer in reserve.

Reilly, Brownstein and Sullivan are candidates for varsity center, while four experienced guards are available—VonNieda, (captain), Langren, Barton and Delp, all letter men.

Although handicapped by a late start, the Lions have rounded into shape quickly, and are prepared for the two road trips which come late in the season.

HARMAN YERKES NOW HEADS CO. BAR ASS'N

Officers Chosen at 43d Annual Meeting Held In Phila.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 11.—The forty-third annual meeting of the Bucks County Bar Association was held Saturday evening at the Manufacturers' Club, Philadelphia, with thirty-five lawyers in attendance.

During the business session Hon. Harman Yerkes, of Doylestown, was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected are as follows: Vice-president, William Stuckert, Doylestown; secretary and treasurer, Henry A. James, Doylestown; directors, E. Wesley Keeler, William Stuckert, Doylestown; Howard L. James, Bristol; Thomas Ross, Arthur M. Eastburn, Isaac J. Vanartsdalen and J. Freeman Hendricks, Doylestown.

The law library committee appointed for the year was as follows: Hiram H. Keller, Henry A. James, Calvin S. Boyer, Arthur M. Eastburn and Webster S. Achey.

During the meeting an appropriate resolution on the death of John D. James, Doylestown, was directed to be placed on the minutes of the association and a copy sent to Mr. James' daughters, who survive him.

"He will be greatly missed because he was a man of literary attainments, a man of great loyalty to the Bar," the resolution read in the opening. "He was a booster of Doylestown and everything pertaining to Doylestown, a man of fine sensibilities of patriotism, as was fully manifested through out the World War; a man of grit and great personal courage, which he so often displayed during his several years' illness, and a lawyer who always dealt with the Court and with his fellow practitioners with courtesy, deference and becoming politeness."

During the meeting a committee composed of J. Hibbs Buckman, Langhorne; Harry E. Grim, Perkasie; and George Ross, Doylestown, was appointed to bring to the attention of the Court, a suggested rule in relation to "accounts to be filed." The same committee was also authorized to suggest that the Prothonotary inform the attorneys when opinions of the Court, or other papers, pertaining to cases, are filed.

Another suggestion made at the meeting was that a committee suggest that the attorney's room in the Court House, be set aside for the use of attorneys and their clients and not for other persons.

CORNWELLS FIREMEN MEET AND ORGANIZE

Union Fire Company, No. 1,
Plans for New Building
On State Road

TO SECURE CHARTER

At an organization meeting held on Sunday, officers were chosen for the Union Fire Company, No. 1, of Cornwells Heights. Heading this company of 82 active members is President R. O'Neill. Other office holders selected are: William Beal, vice-president; Elmer Miller, treasurer; Paul Wurst, Jr., secretary; trustees, C. Weber, G. Malson and Paul Wurst, Sr. There are 51 charter members.

It is planned by the new fire-fighting organization to erect a fire station, 50 by 90 feet, fashioned of concrete brick. The structure will be two stories high, and the second floor of the building will be used for holding dances and other social activities. It is expected that ground will be broken about March 15th, and if the present plans are carried out the firemen expect to occupy the new station on July 4th. The building is located on State Road, above Station avenue, near the old Traylor Shipbuilding Corporation plant.

At the last meeting a committee was appointed to draw plans for the building and to attend to the drawing up of a charter. This committee consisted of H. Lincoln Hughes, R. O'Neill, and G. Malson.

Hopes are held forth for the purchase of some apparatus before Spring.

Francis J. Byers Named Director of Farmers Bank

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Farmers National Bank held yesterday, Francis J. Byers was elected a member of the board, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Hugh B. Eastburn.

The list of directors of this institution now includes: Joseph R. Grundy, A. Brock Shoemaker, A. Russell Barton, Clarence J. Buckman, Thomas Scott, Clarence W. Winter, Walter P. Leedom, Jacob C. Schmidt, and Francis J. Byers.

Officers later chosen by the board at an organization meeting are: President, Joseph R. Grundy; vice-president, A. Brock Shoemaker; cashier, Thomas Scott; assistant cashier, William H. H. Fene.

The two sessions took place in the banking house between the hours of nine and 11 o'clock.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVES SCORE TWO VICTORIES

Boys' Team Defeats Brown
Prep. and Girls Win From Taylor's

SHOOTING IS FEATURE

By T. M. Juno
It rained field goals for the Bristol High School five last night when the local boys defeated Brown Prep. by the score of 36 to 19, and the girls defeated Taylor's Business College by the score of 23 to 7.

The boys had an easy time in defeating the much taller and faster five of Philadelphia. This five could very seldom break through the Cardinal and Gray's five-man defense and it was not until the second squad was in that they began rolling in two-pointers.

Captain "Whitey" Opatyke was for the third time this season, putting in six field goals and three fouls.

Wright and Strumfels, besides scoring a great number of points, proved to be efficient cogs in the passing line of the local high school.

Spadaccino and De Risi again played a wonderful game at the guard positions. De Risi, scored two beautiful long shots.

"Reds" Statton and Hewes were both very fast, but were taken out of the game, because of personal foul. Both played good for the losers. This was the boys' fifth straight victory.

Bristol High sextet played a strong team in Taylor Business College, but the Green and White sextet was not able to get by the fine guarding of Giagnacova and Praul. Taylor's finished on the short end of a 23-7 score.

Not one field goal was made by the visitors' six while Praul and Giagnacova were in action.

E. McFadden was again high scorer of the local sextet and rolled her total score of the season to 71 points.

Captain Marion Harrison and Elsie Rockhill both showed excellent skill in shooting field goals.

Sue Strumfels and "Sis" Pierce played their usual good game at side center and jumping center respectively.

Taylor's boasted of two real stars in Walsh and Compton but neither could get by the local guards. It was the fourth straight for the local six.

START SUIT AGAINST NEWPTVILLE BUS OWNER

Action Against Theo. Heller Gets Under Way In Court

POLEN IS SENTENCED

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 11.—In Court No. 2 yesterday before Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, the case of Lewis T. Foster and Walter R. Dome, trading as the Lansdale Heating Supplies Company vs. Donald R. Richards, of Richlandtown, went to the jury. Suit was brought against Richards for $294.13 alleged to be due on a bill for plumbing supplies.

Trial started in Court No. 1 before Judge William C. Ryan in the case of Thomas Grafenstine and Henry Grafenstine, of Croydon, against Theodore Heller, Newportville bus operator. The plaintiff is suing Heller for damages for injuries sustained when Heller's bus crashed into Thomas Grafenstine, 16, while he was riding a bicycle on Sunday, May 9, 1926, near Grundy's Corner. In the trial of the case State Senator Clarence J. Buckman represents the plaintiff and Howard L. James, of Bristol, the defendant.

To serve six months in the Bucks County Prison and to pay a fine of $400 and costs was the sentence imposed upon Nicholas G. Polen, proprietor of the New Galena Hotel, yesterday, by Judge William C. Ryan.

At a trial on December 13, this year, Polen was convicted of possessing fifteen pints of whiskey at his hotel. The police raided his place while he was away from home. A new trial was refused and sentence was pronounced this morning.

Polen was taken to the Bucks County Prison by an officer from the Sheriff's office after sentence had been pronounced. It was reported that he will appeal to the higher courts, but this is not true. He started to serve his sentence yesterday.

Webster Achey, of Doylestown, Polen's attorney, was asked whether he had anything to say in behalf of his client. Mr. Achey called attention to the Court that very few prison sentences have been imposed on the charge of possession of liquor.

"You have been here before," Judge Ryan remarked. "On at least two occasions you have been convicted. The Court regards you as a persistent violator of the liquor laws of this Commonwealth."

The dockets in the Quarter Sessions Court show that in 1923 Polen was fined $10 and costs for selling liquor at his hotel. In 1926 Polen was convicted of possessing intoxicating liquor and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the Bucks County Prison.

FIDELITY ASS'N HAS GREAT GROWTH IN PAST TEN YEARS

Building Association Increases
Its Assets by Big Margin

GIVES ANNUAL REPORT

Directors Are Elected And Officers Chosen For The Year

Annual meeting of stockholders of Fidelity Building Association was held last night in the office of Gilkeson & James. President William H. H. Fine submitted his annual report which showed the Association is in an exceedingly healthy condition and has experienced a phenomenal growth during the past ten years.

The President's report is as follows: "To the Stockholders:

"I cannot refrain from calling your attention to the unusual growth and success of our Association during the past ten years and for that reason I have prepared this special report to you that I may make a few comments and comparisons which you might overlook.

"Upon going back to our annual report of January 8, 1918, I found that our assets at that time were $67,581.19. Our assets at this report in 1928 are $289,469.53. This is a little over four times the assets of 1918. In fact our Association loaned to borrowers the sum of $78,100.00 during the past year which is more than our total assets ten years ago.

"Another item that must not be overlooked is the very low cost or expense required to operate our Association. The report this year shows that the total expenses, including all salaries, advertising and supplies for the past year was only $523.15. Our income from premiums and fines alone amounted to $1,005.36 which is almost twice the amount of our expenses.

"You will notice one account delinquent in the amount of $505.80. However, since this report was prepared this account has been paid off in full. So far as we are able to judge all other delinquent accounts are so far reduced that we are in a most sound condition.

"In conclusion I am calling your attention to the fact that our assets are now over a quarter of a million dollars; that we have grown safely and surely during the past ten years and that our Association is doing a great work for our Borough, making home owners of our citizens and shows by its growth that it has the confidence and support of our people. I think it only proper that your directors and stockholders should let your friends and neighbors know that our Association opens a series of its stock every six months and that they may become subscribers and stockholders by giving their names to any of the directors or at the office of the secretary, at 295 Radcliffe street."

Following were the directors elected for the ensuing year: William H. H. Fine, John Carty, Frederick C. Durkin, Serrill D. Dettleson and Horace N. Davis.

At the conclusion of the stockholders meeting the newly elected Board met and organized by the election of Mr. Fine as president; John H. Hardy, treasurer, and Howard L. James, secretary.

Copies of the 43rd annual report were distributed to the shareholders.

LAME EXCUSES

One of the most common complaints among Bristol school-teachers and those in nearby towns is to the effect that parents of first and second grade children seem to be of the opinion that not much is lost when they fail to send the tots to sessions in weather showing the slightest inclemency.

A teacher in one of the rural schools was heard to remark recently: "When I was a school-girl myself, I used to think it was not harmful for the younger children to stay home if it was raining, but now I look at the matter from a different angle. The tots of six and seven are in classes, where everything means so much to them. If they fail to gain all that is given throughout the week, owing to having stayed at home one or two days, it is hard for them to make up their work."

This is most certainly true. The children, especially at this age, cannot make up the work of their own accord, as can grammar or high school students; and in so many cases the parents seem to lack enough interest to assist the beginners.

Thus much foundation work, upon which the teachers put so much time and preparation is for naught, as far as some scholars are concerned.

It is only natural that the fathers and mothers should want the smaller offspring kept safe from chilly blasts and sweeping rains, but how much it would mean in studies during later years, if the child had the advantage of every session possible, with petty excuses thrown to the winds.

If the parents have the real interest of the children at heart, a way could be found by which they could be transported or taken to the schoolhouse in safety. Many of the older students would gladly lend a helping hand if it is not possible for the mother to find time to accompany the little one herself. And if warmly garbed the child will undoubtedly benefit physically from the walk in the open, and at the same time keep up with his or her classmates.

The welfare of the child is at stake when the parents look about for petty weather excuses.

ing and someone knocked, but I didn't open—I was afraid—" her words died away into a convulsive sob.

Fabien calmed her while he explained all that had happened.

"I must leave you again, dear, to see if the convicts are really in command of the ship. You must be brave, because if they have done away with the old crew they will turn pirates and carry us out to sea. If I can find a boat we can manage to get it overboard and reach America—land is in sight now—remember it is our only chance—I can see no other way of escape."

"I hope I find the convicts either nursing their wounds or cuddling their women. Let them do anything, just so long as they forget about you. I will return soon, dear!"

Manon stifled a sob. Swiftly their arms went about each other, their lips met—then she bravely spun Fabien out.

He sauntered around the deck. Signs of the conflict were everywhere. His own disheveled appearance failed to attract attention as he walked aft. Neither the Captain nor the Governor were to be seen; they had been imprisoned or slain and thrown overboard. Those of the crew who had not joined the mutinying convicts had met death or been thrown bodily into the hold.

Fabien's nose to escape from the hold had been more successful than he anticipated, but the result was appalling. The shore line was faintly discernable. To his horror he discovered that they were headed away from land! From the stern, a life boat lashed to the davits suggested a means of escape. While he was carefully examining the lashings to see how they worked, the giant approached and put his great arm familiarly around Fabien's shoulder.

"Well, friend," he said, "Your plan of escape worked! I've swapped places with the old Captain. I'm going to make him sweat down in the hold and use him for navigating later on." The giant was surprisingly verbose.

"Later on," interrupted Fabien, "What do you mean?"

"Well you don't think we're heading for the penal colony to be wrapped up in chains again, do you? No!—Maybe we'll land some place else—and maybe we won't; but we got our women with us and we'll have a colony of our own, at sea or on land, it doesn't matter. Keep an eye open on deck for me, friend, while I go below and make sure I got the prettiest—well, while I look things over." With a grand swagger the giant went below.

Fabien waited until he disappeared before darting into another doorway that lead to Manon. After hearing the new Captain's plan there was no doubt about the advisability of escaping in a lifeboat.

"Manon—Manon!" whispered Fabien at the door, "Come dear—quickly!"

Immediately she appeared with a great coat wrapped about her and a man's hat pulled over her curls. "I am ready—but don't leave me again!"

"You darling! Never." Fabien smiled his approval at her forethought in assuming a partial disguise, but there was no time for conversation or love making.

Without another word they went on deck, clinging to the shadows to make themselves inconspicuous. Going aft to the stern davits they crawled into the life boat. Fabien handled the ropes, hand over hand, until the boat hit the waves with a hard flat splash; then he loosened the ropes, shot the oars in place and rowed for the dim shore.

Presently a convict sailor spied them and raised an alarm. The deck swarmed with poorly disciplined seamen hurling various missiles at the little black spot in the darkness. Unable to hit the fugitives they cursed their luck and returned to new duties about the ship.

The sea was uncomfortably rough for a small boat but Fabien and Manon did not mind—land, a new land was not far away and it would be their home where they could begin life again—this time as man and wife.

Fabien pulled in the oars and crawled back to the wide stern seat with Manon. He kept one arm around her and the other hand on the rudder as the waves and tide carried them shoreward.

Smiling into each other's eyes their lips met in a long, wonderful kiss of love and happy fulfillment.

The ship was yawing from port to starboard and back again. It headed into the wind and then ran before it. The great sails slatted from side to side with a force that threatened to bring all the rigging down on the heads of the fighters below.

It was precarious footing for both Synnelet and Fabien but their intense fury and hatred for each other caused them to give little thought to anything except their own private grudge. Manon could not belong to both of them. Each man knew this and was determined that he would be the one to claim her.

Synnelet had the advantage and several times made desperate lunges at Fabien with his sword. Each time Fabien was able to get out of reach just in time. A heavy rolling sea almost brought Synnelet on top of Fabien as Synnelet leaned from the crow's nest and Fabien clung to the rigging. With a smile of triumph the pampered nephew thrust forward, fiercely, with all his strength, toward Fabien's breast.

The lunge of the ship into a wave caused an abrupt check for which Synnelet was unprepared. He struggled desperately to regain his balance but his feet lost their foothold and with a great cry of terror he dangled perilously by his hands a hundred feet or more above the deck. Like a huge human pendulum he swung by his hands from side to side at each roll of the ship. Proudly Synnelet looked at Fabien and implored mercy. This was not the glorious ending he had planned for their combat, but in his desperation he forgot that just a moment before he had tried to plunge his sword into Fabien's breast.

It was only a question of seconds now. Synnelet's strength was fast waning. A sudden pitch and careened him with a rattling crash into the boiling sea below.

Like a man stunned, Fabien clung to the flimsy ladder. God had taken upon Himself the punishment he had sought to mete out. Fabien's lips moved in silent prayer and his thoughts again returned to Manon. He must go to her. Half way down the ladder he paused to look below. The convicts were victorious and the lust of battle had turned into a lust of a bawdy sport.

The deported women had been taken from their quarters and as Fabien looked he saw one of the convicts pull a woman into his arms. Other women were running, terrified, about the deck—each pursued by a man who saw in her reward for the battle he had just been through.

"What if one of them was Manon!" Quickly he descended and fought his way through the mad scramble on deck. At last he reached the cabin where he had left her. Softly he knocked on the door and as softly called her name. The bolt slid back with a muttered "Thank God!" Fabien took her into his arms. She clung to him in terror, sobbing as if her heart would break.

"Oh, Fabien—my dear! I thought you would never come back—and I was afraid—you were gone so long. The women have been screaming and someone knocked, but I didn't open—I was afraid—" her words died away into a convulsive sob.

Fabien calmed her while he explained all that had happened.

"I must leave you again, dear, to see if the convicts are really in command of the ship. You must be brave, because if they have done away with the old crew they will turn pirates and carry us out to sea. If I can find a boat we can manage to get it overboard and reach America—land is in sight now—remember it is our only chance—I can see no other way of escape."

"Yes—hurry and find out—I would rather go adrift on a raft than stay here any longer!" Manon had control of herself again and was thoroughly aware of their precarious outlook.

"I hope I find the convicts either nursing their wounds or cuddling their women. Let them do anything, just so long as they forget about you. I will return soon, dear!"

Manon stifled a sob. Swiftly their arms went about each other, their lips met—then she bravely spun Fabien out.

TUNNEY COMMENTS ON THE TOURNAMENT IDEA

By Davis J. Walsh
L. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament is a grand idea, only it isn't Rickard's and never was. It merely is his tournament; also his money, after the saps are tapped on the medallion oblongata for what they have, if enough.

The above, in effect, was Gene Tunney's statement to the writer today after he had masticated Rickard's charge that the champion was guilty of ingratitude in attempting to void the contract signed by the pair for heavyweight business this summer. Rickard's story was that he had fought and bled—the suckers, per chance—for Tunney, got him his title chance, gave him over a million dollars and altogether made him what he is. In other words, he desired to infer that Tunney was greatly in his debt.

Tunney sees it otherwise. He thinks the matter of debt is an absolute stand-off and cites the heavyweight tourney as proof of his contention. It made Rickard the better part of a million dollars last year, and according to Tunney, it never would have been thought of if it hadn't been for one man's rare presence of mind, as it were. Who was that man? Don't be so young.

"It was I who suggested to Rickard

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters

Musterole, made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, will do all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—without the blister. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from bronchitis, sore throat, coughs, colds, croup, neuralgia, headache, congestion, rheumatism, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, and all aches and pains. It may prevent pneumonia. All druggists—35c and 65c jars and tubes—hospital size $3.

Better than a mustard plaster

that elimination tests be held," the champion declared with a modest blush. "What heavyweight champion have you known who didn't hand-pick his opponents? There is only one and his name is Gene Tunney. I insisted that Rickard produce the best man available as my opponent last year and I told him the only way this could be done was to hold a tourney with all of the leading contenders entered.

"I pointed out to him the monetary value of the project, both in itself and in its effect upon the actual championship fight. He finally saw my point of view and I don't think he has regretted doing so. He talks of making me a million last year. Well, I made him one, too, and what is more, he is continuing to make money by following my plan again this season."

Privately, Tunney had some other remarks to air on the subject of Rickard but they were not exactly the kind one saves for the drawing room, the inference from this being that, if Tunney and Rickard are putting on an act, the champion is a consummate hummer. He registered disdain in several shades of facial gymnastics.

He, however, declined to comment on the current report that the other promoter with whom he plans to sign for a summer bout is Mr. James Mullin, of the Chicago Mollens. Nor would Tunney admit that his opponent already had been determined by the alleged signing by Mullin of Jack Delaney to a contract. The only hook-up of ideas in this connection is that Delaney is understood to have pulled out of Rickard's tournament and further fact that he fought Berlenbach for Mullin last month.

As for Tunney's proposed association with the Chicago man, that may be a long story or perhaps none at all.

State News

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—Kansas cotton-tail rabbits are excellent travelers, but poor judges of distance—and as a result scores are being killed in Mifflin county.

The rabbits, shipped here from Milton, Hutchinson and Versailles, Kansas, manage to weather their long trip east without evil effects, but once liberated in this region, they are slaughtered by motorists.

The rabbits persist in dashing across the highways in the path of speeding autos, and their judgment of distance almost always proves fatal to them.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—The market or law-suit value of one eye is $7,500, the Lackawanna county court here decided.

The court awarded that amount to Mrs. Harry May, who lost an eye in an automobile accident and sued Leon Malley, driver of the car which crashed into her machine.

JERSEY SHORE, Pa., Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—Declaring that the Jersey Shore Business and Professional Women's Club is "mortgaging the souls of some in order to clothe the bodies of others," Rev. Walter Gwynn has launched a campaign against the Club's proposed charity card party.

Rev. Gwynn referred to card games as "a spiritual blight" and warned that they are the cause of "utter eternal ruin."

The club plans to raise money for local charity by sponsoring the card game.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 11 (I.N.S.)—Pennsylvania newspapermen representing more than two hundred daily and weekly publications will compare notes here at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association on Jan. 27 and 28.

Publishers of newspapers in every part of the State are expected here for a general forum on problems relating to the conduct of the Commonwealth's newspapers. Speakers and guests of nationwide repute in the profession are expected here, and Albert W. Fell, managing director of the association anticipates the largest gathering in the history of the organization.

Edward J. Lynett, publisher of the Scranton Times, who recently completed a half century of journalism, will be in charge of the general forum at which the making of a modern newspaper will be thoroughly discussed from an editorial standpoint. Governor John S. Fisher is among the speakers listed, with Ralph D. Hetzel, president of Pennsylvania State College, Merle Thorpe, editor and publisher of The Nation's Business, and others.

Fell announced he has sent special invitations to M. Koenigsberg, president of International News Service, who with the heads of the other news associations is expected to be a guest at the annual banquet.

—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sedgwick, of 554 Locust street, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Friday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmidt, of Frankford, were Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Laing, of Newportville Road.

—Dr. and Mrs. Charles Abbott, of Radcliffe and Dorrance streets, had as a Sunday dinner guest, Mrs. Abbott's brother, Dr. David Marine, of New York.

NEW INTERNAL REMEDY ENDS AGONY OF PILES

At Last Relief Permanent
Quick Without Salve
Or Suppositories

THOUSANDS AVOIDING
OPERATION FOR PILES

Everyone knows that piles and hemorrhoids are caused by swollen, dilated veins. A famous chemist asked himself one day: "Why can't I coat a pill with a substance impervious to gastric juices so it will pass through the stomach into the bowels and then dissolve into a healing, soothing liquid to reach the innermost parts—alleviate the pain and irritation—help nature banish piles and hemorrhoids in a complete and permanent way?"

His research brought results. Thousands of tests prove that no matter how long or how severely one has suffered they may go about relieving their condition in a simple, scientific, harmless fashion without the use of oldtime salves, suppositories, or operations.

"For years I suffered terribly with piles. Could not work, stand up or lay down in comfort. I got discouraged as nothing helped me. At last our druggist got in these marvelous new pills. I got relief in one day and was all cured in five days with no trace of piles since," declares one of the many thousands who have used Colace Pile Pills. Mrs. John Quinlan, Glen Falls, N. Y.

Even delicate old men and women troubled with piles, sit, walk and sleep in comfort without pain in a few hours in many instances and report complete relief in a few days. Doctors endorse this harmless, effective internal way. Anyone may get the same results. Colace Pile Pills are made in the world's largest laboratory of finest ingredients. Certainly no one, young or old, should suffer another day. Just a couple pills with swallow of water at meal time for a few days. Leading druggists in this and other towns are featuring them.—(Adv.)

THE PRICE OF PROGRESS

Auto speed races are so often accompanied by death or serious threat of it that only the great part they have played in development of the automobile reconciles many to them. Big purses are offered. Daring drivers send their cars over the ground at dazzling speed, furnishing a thrill which attracts thousands to witness, always, hairbreadth escapes and, frequently, sacrifice of life which might have served a Roman holiday.

Large money prizes encourage the building of new and better engines and improvements in construction. The races furnish the test of speed and durability in engines, which must conform to rigid specifications. They have been responsible for the lightening of weight of motors, a development which prepared the way for the airplane. They subject tires and wheels to tremendous strain and have led to their steady betterment. Every part of the car is made to undergo critical trial, an experience from which the industry has reaped enormous benefit. Car manufacturers insist that neither shop tests nor private highway operation reveal so much of value as competitive racing.

But noting the vast throngs which flock to these spectacles, one cannot but suspect that the desire to exploit the business has something to do with the contests.

What racing and durability runs have done and are doing for the automobile transoceanic and trans-continental flights, racing and endurance tests are accomplishing for the airplane. These tests are improving airplane motors, plane control and design, and air navigation. The best plane of today is the embodiment of the whole sum of knowledge man has obtained from his flying. Part of the price is paid in sacrifice of human lives.

POWER OF SUGGESTION

This has been characterized as the age of tolerance. Tolerance implies an open mind, the absence of blind bigotry, possession of the power to reason, and a willingness to hear both sides to every question before forming one's own conclusion. It follows, therefore, that modern society, being more tolerant of the opinions and manners of others, should be more open to suggestion. It is probably a fact that the great mass of Americans was never before more subject to suggestion.

Everybody has heard of the power of suggestion and everybody has seen it demonstrated through the medium of political, reform, advertising and slang catch-phrases. A specious slogan can win acclaim for a creed or cause previously universally rejected and obviously fallacious. Than the catch-phrase there is no more effective camouflage for the spurious.

Suggestion plays a most important part in business. Advertising, show windows and show cases owe their origin and usefulness to the power of suggestion. Contrary to a popular impression, the merchant advertises and displays his wares to create a desire for possession among those who see them and it is through suggestion that that desire is created.

But for suggestion the manufacturers of patent medicines which "cure all ills and ailments" would be bankrupt, and, by the same token, the motorist would be satisfied with his own car.

Specials for Thursday, Friday and Saturday!

It's a Hit!
ALMAROMA Coffee
Pound In A Vacuum Can 49c

When we first announced, last Thursday, our new Almaroma Coffee, we expected quite a response because we knew it to be positively the finest coffee in the country at any price, but we were certainly surprised at the tremendous sale it enjoyed from the first day. By Saturday night store after store sold out its entire supply. If you haven't tried this delicious coffee, by all means do so this week. It is blended from the finest coffee beans selected for aroma, body and flavor. All the bitter chaff is removed and by a $35,000 machine, it is packed in a vacuum moisture-proof, air-proof, dust-proof metal can which keeps it always as fresh as the hour it was roasted.

HORNSBY TRADED FOR GIANTS' BEST INTEREST

By Les Conklin
 L. N. S. Staff Correspondent
 NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—"Roger Hornsby was traded for the best interests of the Giants."

This cryptic sentence was the only official explanation given today for the most astounding trade in modern baseball history, a trade which Tuesday night sent the best second baseman in the National League from New York to Boston in exchange for two ordinary players, Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh. No cash was involved in the deal.

The bare and meaningless announcement given out by the New York club stated that Manager John J. McGraw and President Charles A. Stoneham, "having in mind what we thought to be the best interests of the Giants," had traded Hornsby "after due deliberation." They declined to elaborate on the announcement, interpretation of which bids fair to cause as much speculation in the sporting world as President Coolidge aroused in the political world by his famous "I do not choose to run in 1928."

Stunned baseball fans and sports writers, searching for the colored gentleman in the woodpile, today advanced the following possible explanations for the virtual dismissal of the Giants' great batsman:

1. That Hornsby talked too much last year in telling friends what he would do when he became manager of the Giants, following the expected retirement of McGraw.

2. That the New York club wearied of Hornsby's legal difficulties. After refusing to sell his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals until he got his price, Hornsby was the winner of a suit for $94,000 recently brought against him by Frank Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner, for an alleged gambling debt.

3. That Hornsby's habit of instructing other members of the Giants how to play their position caused resentment and dissension on the team.

4. That the trade was a philanthropic gesture to strengthen the Braves, who are on the rocks financially and have been playing to crowds no larger than a church congregation on a golfing Sunday.

The last explanation was deemed the most plausible one of the lot. The New York club frequently has played Santa Claus to the Braves in past trades. Instead of being made for the best interests of the Giants, the Hornsby trade may have been made for the best interests of the League. Strengthened by the great rajah, the Braves should perk up and draw huge crowds.

Certainly Jack Slattery, Boston's new manager, must be convinced today that there is a Santa Claus, after all. He is getting a fighting player who led the Giants through the thick of the pennant fight last season and batted .351, a mark bettered only by Paul Waner. Slattery loves Hogan, who hit only .235 last season, and Welsh, who batted .247.

Hornsby, classed by many observers as the greatest batsman of all time, led the National League in batting for six consecutive years. In 1922 he clouted 42 home runs, a League record.

McGraw has acquired a much-needed catcher and outfielder, but he will have to make another deal for a second baseman to replace Hornsby unless he elects to take a chance on Andy Cohen, Buck Lal, the Chinaman, or some other rookie. McGraw may get Fresco Thompson from the Phillies, using Welsh in a trade.

Hornsby, in St. Louis, was stunned by news of the trade. And so were New York fans. But one man's wood alcohol is another man's Scotch, for Boston fans are already claiming a first division berth.

Parkland

Mrs. Ida Stuart last week spent a few days here as the guest of Mrs. Annie Lippen.

Mrs. Leila C. Greenlee and granddaughter, Jean Ryan and daughter, Mrs. Joseph Hibbert, started on Monday, Jan. 9th, for Denver, Colorado, where they expect to remain until April.

The first pinochle of the winter's tournament was held at the Community House, with fifteen tables on Saturday evening. Mrs. Walter S. Miller was hostess.

The weekly Thursday evening pinochle was held last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reichman, of Highland avenue.

Miss Edith Hagerman, of Oak Lane, was a recent visitor of her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Lippen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reese and daughter enjoyed Sunday at their summer home on Avenue A, where they entertained relatives from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Anna Brady is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Giff, who has been quite ill at her city home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reichman, Jr., of Philadelphia, enjoyed Sunday here as the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reichman, of Highland avenue.

The splints have been removed from little Ernest Degenhardt's leg, which he broke seven weeks ago, and he is now learning to again walk and is getting along nicely.

Walter S. Miller came on, as usual, from Harrisburg, to enjoy the weekend with his family, at his home on Avenue C.

On Thursday, Jan. 5th, Frank Baker, of Avenue C, passed to the higher life after two years' illness, aged 62 years. Funeral services were conducted by Pastors Mueller and Fretz on Monday afternoon. Interment was made at Morrisville Cemetery.

Under the direction of Charles W. Carter, patrol leader, several of our Parkland Boy Scouts on Saturday last enjoyed a hike to the reservoir, the object of their hike being to take the test tracking.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12 (I.N.S.)—"I'll give one of the two new judges a chance to send their first man to the electric chair."

This grim statement featured the alleged confession of Elverez Miquel, youthful Cuban mechanical dentist charged with the murder of Louise Jacks, 19.

Miquel, who forced his way into a home here in which a midnight party was in progress to shoot the girl to death, laughed when told his confession meant he would stand trial for murder. He alluded to the recent installation of two new county judges, one of whom he said would probably send him to his death.

The young Cuban, who shot the girl when she refused his attentions, asked to see the girl's body shortly after he made his confession. He viewed it calmly, with the simple comment, "Well, she looks different now."

Despite the fact Miquel is a graduate mechanical dentist, he had been employed here as a waiter. He claims he was an athlete in Union University, Schenectady, N. Y., and was offered an opportunity to play big league baseball in 1924 and 1925.

Always Stiff and Achy?

Too Often This Warns of Sluggish Kidney Action.

ARE YOU Stiff? Achy? Sure your kidneys are working right? Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one languid, tired and achy, with often dull headaches, dizziness and nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions. Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of bodily waste. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!
